Yale New Haven Health expands access to care with new medical offices in Stratford

Stratford, CT (April 10, 2026) – Yale New Haven Health (YNHHS) is pleased to announce the opening of new medical offices for Gastroenterology, Internal Medicine and Family Medicine, as well as a blood draw station, at 2909 Main Street in Stratford, further strengthening access to high-quality care in the community.

The new offices consolidate several local practices and expand Yale New Haven Health's footprint at 2909 Main and join existing services at the location, including Radiology, creating a more convenient, comprehensive care destination for patients and families.

"This consolidation and expansion reflects our commitment to convenience and meeting people where they are," said Jorge Rodriguez, executive vice president and chief ambulatory officer for YNHHS. "By bringing more primary and specialty care services directly into the community, we're making it easier for patients and families to get the care they need, closer to home."

The addition of these services supports Yale New Haven Health's ongoing efforts to promote greater access, continuity of care and convenience for patients throughout the region.

"These new offices reflect our continued investment in the health of our communities and our promise to deliver coordinated, patient-centered care that is accessible, seamless and convenient," said Patrick Kenney, MD, chief ambulatory physician executive for YNHHS.
